

Re: How to pass several variables?

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/VB/microsoft.public.vb.general.discussion/2005-08/msg00522.html>

- From: "Ralph" <nt_consulting64@xxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 4 Aug 2005 13:42:06 -0500
-

"HotRod" <NOSPAM@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
news:u2xcC\$RmFHA.1412@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

> I have several variables that are read in from a file and I need to make > them publicly available to several class_modules. What is the best way to do > this? I tried to make a variable that was Global in my form code but it's > not readable in the class_module ideas?
>

A slight modification to Jeff's reply, which will certainly allow each class/object to 'see' the globals, is to wrap the 'read' of the file (data) within its own class. Instance that object in a module and provide a reference to each of your classes.

Whenever you have a group of interesting stuff that must be shared about – you likely have an object.

–ralph

.

- Follow-Ups:
 - ◆ Re: How to pass several variables?
◇ From: HotRod
- References:
 - ◆ How to pass several variables?
◇ From: HotRod
- Prev by Date: Re: How to pass several variables?
- Next by Date: Re: optional Text Box validating to mm/dd/yy
- Previous by thread: Re: How to pass several variables?
- Next by thread: Re: How to pass several variables?
- Index(es):

Re: How to pass several variables?

- ◆ Date
- ◆ Thread