

Re: database permissions issue

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/VB/microsoft.public.vb.general.discussion/2005-09/msg01242.html>

- From: Dave Cullen <nospam@xxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 15 Sep 2005 16:26:35 -0400
-

Yup, that was it. I needed to give permissions to the Oracle directories. Thanks.

Dave wrote:

>
> Dave
>
> XP has different registry entries for each login, the Oracle client software > may be installed for the Power user login but not for the normal user. See > if the normal user can talk to the Oracle database using the Oracle tools.
> If they can you need to look elsewhere, if not you probably need to install > the client software for the normal user.
>
> Good Luck
> Dave O.
>
> "MikeD" <nobody@xxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
> news:uf2a32XuFHA.1136@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx
>>
>> "Dave Cullen" <nospam@xxxxxxx> wrote in message
>> news:43289327.4909E73C@xxxxxxxxxxx
>>> I have a VB6 application that works fine when I'm logged onto the PC
>>> (and our network) as a power user, but won't run when the normal user >>> logs on. I've traced the problem to this line in the form load >>> procedure:
>>>
>>> Set OraSession = CreateObject("OracleInProcServer.XOraSession")
>>>
>>> The program is supposed to attach to our Oracle server. The error >>> message is Run-time error '70', permission denied.
>>>
>>> I've seen this sort of thing with .NET when running database programs >>> from a shared network drive, but not with VS 6 programs and not when the >>> exe is on the local drive.
>>>
>>> OS is WinXP. Can anyone offer a solution, please?

Re: database permissions issue

>>
>>
>> Have you contacted Oracle (searched their FAQs, KB, etc.)? That'd be the >> first thing I'd do. It's quite possible that whatever component you're >> creating requires certain permissions that "normal" users don't have by >> default. It depends on the component/object.
>>
>> --
>> Mike
>> Microsoft MVP Visual Basic
>>
>>
>>
>>
>>
.

• References:

- ◆ database permissions issue
 ◇ From: Dave Cullen
- ◆ Re: database permissions issue
 ◇ From: MikeD
- ◆ Re: database permissions issue
 ◇ From: Dave

- Prev by Date: Re: VB to PayPal Challenge!
- Next by Date: Font looks fine in 3rd party app, but looks tish in VB6
- Previous by thread: Re: database permissions issue
- Next by thread: NTService... service description?
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread