

General recommendations on data control

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/VB/microsoft.public.vb.general.discussion/2006-09/msg02131.html>

- From: "Jim" <someone@xxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Tue, 26 Sep 2006 11:49:48 -0700
-

I'm will begin to prototype an app using data that is presently stored in a large Excel spreadsheet and I'm looking for any recommendations on using a data control, before I start. The database contains several thousand records, each with about 20 fields. Right now only one table.

Should I use comct232.ocx?

What about the "DefaultType" as ODBC or Jet?

Other things I should consider?

Thanks

.