

microsoft.public.vc.atl: Re: howto x.509 certification in GER

Re: howto x.509 certification in GER

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/VC/microsoft.public.vc.atl/2004-05/0273.html>

From: Brian Muth (bmuth_at_mvps.org)

Date: 05/11/04

Date: Tue, 11 May 2004 13:27:26 -0700

Or you could simply set up your own certificate authority under Windows Server 2000 or 2003. The only convenience of using a commercial one such as Verisign or Thawte is that their CA certificates are already installed in the Trusted Root Certification Authority list in Internet Explorer.

Brian