

Re: passing a string to a C++ function

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/VC/microsoft.public.vc.language/2005-10/msg00122.html>

- From: red floyd <no.spam@xxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 05 Oct 2005 10:35:30 -0700
-

Leo wrote:

Hmm...thanks for a very unhelpful answer.

let me rephrase it:

```
char items[3]={"tom","dick","harry"}
```

does that satisfy your "remaining 3 pointers fixation"?

No, because item is an array of char, not an array of const char*.

Note that string literals are of type const char *.

.