Actually it did not work on my end. All of my newsgroup messages quit downloading three days ago. I have to unsubscribe and reboot, then resubscribe to get it to work again. I have the same problem on two identical computers.

You can check google groups to see if it worksI(posted on the server). It typically takes few minutes for it to show up on google. I use google groups most of the time.

What gets me is why every single group on two different machines quit downloading messages unless I unsubscribe, reboot, and resubscribe. The only thing that I can think of is the server had problems and sent garbage data to Outlook Express, and this garbage data somehow clogged up the pipes.

If its happening on different machines, it could be your ISP issue.
