Hi,

I have application whci load different resource dll depending on language selected.

Everything works ok when I want to display resource like image etc in main program, but when I main program call dialog box, images in that dialog are not taken from new resource dll but from main application(in main program). In that dialog box I have different images for different languages in separate dlls. Stange thing though, text from resource string are taken properly from loaded dll.

What can cause that problem?

thanks
