

Re: Keys for use in brainstorming?

Re: Keys for use in brainstorming?

Source: <http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/Visio/microsoft.public.visio.general/2008-09/msg00160.html>

- From: VicGee <vic@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sun, 14 Sep 2008 00:13:16 -0700 (PDT)
-

John,

If you're referring to me, what do you mean by "customers"? If you can find any way to buy anything at my site, do please let me know, I'd be interested to find where the income I'm not getting is going! Nothing on sale, and no affiliate links or ads there mate!

And I have no links to FreeMind, other than as an occasional user, nor to Buzan, other than as a reader of one of his books years ago.

please make your self interest known

I did: In my sig.

Nope, all way off target. If people seek information I do my best to make a contribution of knowledge. You're on a public Google Group here and I was joining a conversation on a subject I find interesting. Sorry that doesn't fit your expectations.

Vic

<http://www.mind-mapping.org>
The master list of mind mapping &
information management software

I hereby declare that my "self-interest" is to extend the use of mind mapping by helping people, joining in discussions on the topic, and providing information that allows them to choose information mapping tools freely from the 296 listed on my site. (OK, John?)

John... Visio MVP wrote:

If you are going to solicit customers in the newsgroups, please make your self interest known.

John... Visio MVP

Re: Keys for use in brainstorming?

