I haven't tried other screen savers, I will run some Diagnostic tests in DirectX, my fan on my video card can be very noisy and may need cleaning and bearings lubricated. Maby my Video Card overheated. I have never been there when it has crashed, i just know it's when this screen saver is running.

Any how, if I find any other Info on this I will post it.

Yes, most recent software from ATI. I was using the Aurora Screen Saver. I'm now using the Blank screensaver successfully.

You're using Vista's native screensaver.

If one of the choices is working, and another isn't... then maybe the other is corrupted.

Can't think of anythng else.

Have you tried any/all of the other choices?
