I suggest testing without any network connection to reduce the activity on the system as it appears that there may be some normal background service that does not run in safe mode may be having trouble checking something on the internet.

Does task manager give you any indication of other process or files that may be running in normal mode that are not running in safe Mode?

Thanks,

Lots of good questions, here is my config:

Home-built PC with the following:

Kingwin Supernova Case

Kingwin AP-450 Power Supply

MSI K8NGM2 Motherboard, using the onboard video

AMD Athlon 64 3200+ CPU

1 GB RAM

Hauppauge MCE500 PVR Card

250 GB SATA Drive

Linksys Wireless PCI NIC

Vista Home Premium SP1

I am using is strictly as a Media Server/PVR. I was planning on removing the Wireless NIC as I not have Gigabit Ethernet going to it but haven't gotten around to it yet (but will now that I have it stripped open).

To address some of the other questions, it was a bit dusty inside though I have thoroughly cleaned it and it is still crashing. Also, the only app not running in Safe mode is media center itself, I was connected to the network and in Safe Mode with Networking. Nothing shows up in problem reports & solutions (no problems reported or solutions).
