Hi all can anyone tell me how to turn off all those annoying window's needs permission boxes that i have to click continue on. They have got to be the most annoying thing microsoft have ever made. Thanks guy's

Hi George,

You have three options that you can do. Option 1 is allows the most security still.

1. Elevate the administrator accounts so that they will not be bugged by UAC and still have UAC turned on.

2. Turn UAC off.

3. Enable the built-in Administrator account and use it when you do not want to be bugged by UAC. This will allow UAC to still be turned on for the other accounts to.
