

microsoft.public.vsnet.debugging: RE: "The object exporter specified was not found"

RE: "The object exporter specified was not found"

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/VisualStudio/microsoft.public.vsnet.debugging/2004-11/0006.html>

---

From: WildRide (WildRide_at_discussions.microsoft.com)

Date: 11/01/04

Date: Sun, 31 Oct 2004 16:48:01 -0800

When you debug a ASP.NET app on a remote machine, in the background VS "attaches" to the debugging components on the web server. You can attach manually by selecting Debug-->Processes-->entering the host name of the box you want to attach to.

VS uses the same (or nearly the same) transport regardless of whether you are debugging a remote web app, service, process or gui application.

WR

"etropic" wrote:

>
> What do you mean attach?
>
> I get this message when trying to debug a remote c# asp.net application from > vs 2003. I have followed the instructions for remoting debugging on the > server (debugger group etc.) but when running vs from the client, after a > successful build I get....
> "unable to start debugging on web server. The object exporter specified was > not found."
>
>
>
> "WildRide" wrote:
>
> I get the above message when trying to attach to a remote machine.
> >
> Running VS2003 and XPsp2 without the firewall.
> Not sure if it's an SP2 problem, but I've got plenty of sp1 pc's on the > network that can connect just fine.
> >
> Has anyone seen this before.
> >
> > WR

RE: "The object exporter specified was not found"