

Re: Access.en-us/AcCLR.cab

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/VisualStudio/microsoft.public.vsnets.enterprise.tools/2008-02/msg00014.html>

- From: "Rebel" <dixs@a;ldskfj.com>
 - Date: Sat, 23 Feb 2008 17:44:06 -0800
-

I was able to install the MS Ent 07 on a windows xp pro without absolutely no problems. It works like it is suppose to. But I can't install it on vista at all.

"jbreedy" <jbreedy@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
<news:E6B3ACD0-DA38-46C5-B385-47CD7C934B95@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>

I now tried installing the MS Ent 07 Home Use Program on DVD disc on my laptop Dell Inspiron 4100 with a XP operating system already residing, no luck here either. This same laptop mentioned is imprinted with the compact disc and DVD logos on the outer frame area of the disc input, thus I thought it might work better than my failed try earlier.

My failed try earlier occured on a desktop Dell Dimension 4500S with XP operating system and no such DVD imprint, but indeed a compact disc imprint.

But, back to my laptop attempt today. No luck when I try installing, this time I am greeted by an immediate Error window reading, "The specified program requires a newer version of Windows."

As some one may dismally say, "Bloody Bollocks!" Can anyone out there help solve this impasse!

"Rebel" wrote:

No luck at all. Nothing out there works either. I am using Office XP and so far its working. It s a bit frustrating to not be able to use the software you have. Especially since Vista is the most recent windows product and Enterprise 2007 is fairly new as well. Hope they figure it out one of these days.
Rebel

"jbreedy" <jbreedy@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
<news:A010B3AB-BB9B-4A6D-9F92-76AB13288459@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
> I'm having the exact same trouble with a legitimate copy. Have you had > any > success yet?
>

Re: Access.en-us/AccLR.cab

> "Rebel" wrote:

>

>> I have a legitimate copy of Enterprise 2007. When I try to install it >> can't >> find Access.en-us/AccLR.cab. I'm guessing that if I find that cab it >> will >> need others. The DVD has those files but can't locate them. Any ideas?

>> I

>> really don't want to go thru torrent or a site like that in order to >> keep >> stuff off of my computer. Thanks for your help.

>> Rebel

>>