

Re: Re:CVS Software

---

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/VisualStudio/microsoft.public.vstudio.development/2006-01/msg00028.html>

---

- From: "Graham Banks" <grahamSpoilerbanks@xx>
  - Date: Thu, 12 Jan 2006 15:36:29 -0000
-

I'd also like to start using CVS, but I'd like to access a repository on a Linux machine. I believe that WINCVS is a front end for CVSNT (correct me if I'm wrong). Can CVSNT access CVS repositories on Linux machines?

Graham

"RobertW" <Wodger@xxxxxxxx> wrote in message

news:a077c58b45d74af7a56bedd71a420b37@xxxxxxxx

- > I prefer WINCVS, it's Open Source and works well. I personally prefer it
- > over SourceSafe We use it at a team level and PVCS at a Corporate Level.
- >
- > We run a dedicated server for PVCS, but as we have 5000+ staff, separate
- > Development, Integration, Testing and Deployment regions it's justified.
- >
- > Guess choice is affected on usage and budget.

.

-
- Prev by Date: ***Re: Getting Started in Windows Programming***
  - Next by Date: ***JPEG library***
  - Previous by thread: ***Re: Getting Started in Windows Programming***
  - Next by thread: ***Re: CVS Software***
  - Index(es):
    - ◆ ***Date***
    - ◆ ***Thread***