Hi,

I am looking at adding a Windows 2003 server as an additional domain controller in an existing Windows 2000 server domain. I have looked at the technet article KB278875 (<http://support.microsoft.com/?id=278875>) and was wondering if anyone has tried this and, if so, is there anything I should watch out for.

As the existing DC is the FMSO and not having done this before, I'm a little concerned :)

Thanks for any help or advice.

Paul
