Thanks, I might try that. But things have multiplied. I think I have got rid of the trouble but during tea break this evening I came back to a message from Mailwasher that the Blacklist and the filter list were blank and 'should we update from a backup list?'

Well I had done nothing to deserve that and the backup were not even up to date. I promptly changed my use from Administrator to User which incidentally caused me to lose access to Agent for writing this. How do I get permission to use Agent as a User ?

I should like to write some file as a atch file as I am getting a little rusty on C. I want the said files to be stored somewhere else as hidden files and that the files are only to be copied at startup in the morning, IF the date is todays date minus 1 and the file is equal or bigger in size than the file it overwrites.

If that is not possible, please let me know and I shall do it in C. I know how to slowly build the needed files using Mailwasher but it is a slow uphill struggle for the first 2-3 weeks with just 50-60 spam files per day

Thanks for your help so far. I have got away for far too long being a working Administrator every day !!!!!!!.. Here in Australia it never rains but it pours.
