I updated from Win98SE to Win2k about 6 months ago, including all the latest service packs (up to SP4, I believe).

Since July I have noticed that Windows Update no longer works. Has something changed? I used to get a notice that updates were available for installation but I no longer get these. I did some poking around and do see the updates from July but the installations have failed. What is going on and is there a way to manually install them?

TIA,
GHB
