Hi Airman T,

.....Speaking of that, what about FDISK? Is that recoverable?

Good question. I don't have a clue what people have used to format the disks I come across. There was one once upon a time one that I couldn't get anything off, but I don't recall if there may have been another problem with it or not.

With three or four different ways to hide old info on disks, formatting, overwriting, deleting etc., I wouldn't be surprised if at least one of them did a better job than another.
