Greetings.

I just installed Windoze 2K with SP4 & "roll-up" on my spiffy new computer. In preparation for installing my application software, I first installed my uninstaller (Ashampoo Uninstaller Platinum, <http://tinyurl.com/2hoppr>). Attempting to actually use any of its features results in the error message partially shown in the subject heading. I suspect — perhaps incorrectly? — that the problem does not lie with the Ashampoo utility (although it is clearly going about its business in an circuitous fashion), but with my setup/installation of Win2K. I should be exceedingly grateful for any explicit advice on how to correct this difficulty. Expedient explicit advice would be even better, as the inability to install the uninstaller means that nothing else can (dare) be installed either. (Upon reflection, I think my error was not in being one of the last people to have switched from DOS to Windoze, but in having switched at all. ;-)

Thanks in advance for any help!

Cordially,
Richard Kanarek

Bemused to observe that Windoze 2K takes more time to shut down on a 3.2Ghz computer than CP/M-86 took to boot-up on a 8Mhz Turbo XT.
