Hello all,

For security purposes, I have trimmed the members of the Domain Admins group across all domains to only a select few. When doing this, ex-members of that group are no longer able to add machines to the domain. In Default Domain Policy and Default Domain Controllers Policy | User Rights Assignment, I have added these users to the "Add workstations to the Domain" policy, but it still doesn't work. I have also Delegated control to the Computers container so they have the right to write.

What am i missing? I need these users to be able to add machines to the domain without them having domain admin rights. Thanks.
