Hello Paula ;),

Rightclick in the window choose the option mark and you can copy everything you have marked.

Best regards

Meinolf,

I do get quite a bit of information when I enter that command.
Unfortunately, I cannot copy it. But it is showing an IP address.

TIA,
Paula

Open START, RUN type cmd and press enter. In the black window type ipconfig /all and if you see something like 169.254.x.x your computer has no ipaddress to connect to the network. If you see something other please post the result.

Best regards

Did you try to ping the server after boot and login to the workstation?

Best regards

Meinolf, I do believe I "replied to author" earlier rather than to the newsgroup... sorry, it's been awhile since I've posted here.

Anyway, on boot, a .bat program runs and "reattaches" each computer in the network to a server where we run a program called JobBOSS.

TIA,
