Greetings --

Have you purchased and installed a word processing application? WinXP is an operating system, so it only includes the rudimentary text editors, NotePad and WordPad, both of which can be found under Start > All Programs > Accessories.

Neither the Microsoft Office application suite, nor any of its individual component applications (Word, Excel, PowerPoint, Access, Outlook, etc.), have ever been "part" of *any* Windows operating system. They are, and always have been, separate applications, that must be purchased and installed separately.
