After downloading Windows XP home service pack 2 the bottom border of the window for the chess table on pogo.com became thicker. This blocks the chess clock which is near the bottom of the window. I cannot drag the border to reveal the chess clock. Also when I right click on the border, nothing happens. The thicker bottom border takes up more of the bottom part of the chess table window than before the download. The pop-up blocker is off so that is not the problem. Any advice?
