Yes of course you will! As has been the case since Windows 3.1, it's one licence *PER SYSTEM*. If you want to install it on more than one system you will require more than one licence.

Let me guess, you're another of these idiots who thinks CPU=computer and bought Pro because someone told you it could be installed on two CPUs?! The CPU is the Central Processing Unit not the computer! Two CPUs means one system with dual processors.
