

Re: Xp Installed over over crap in system

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.basics/2004-12/0297.html>

---

From: Jim Macklin (p51mustang[threeX12])

Date: 12/03/04

Date: Fri, 3 Dec 2004 15:24:19 -0600

Just reinstall the programs.

--

The people think the Constitution protects their rights;
But government sees it as an obstacle to be overcome.
"paul" <paul@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message
news:F27DD1CD-B730-4DB3-96B3-189057360F38@microsoft.com...
| Thanks for the responses. Ok, I upgraded from Win98 second
ed. The programs
| won't work that were there before because the systems says
some of the DLL
| and the EXE files needed to run the program are no longer
there. How can I do
| a format and be able to install XP Pro AGAIN?
| Thanks Again.
| Paul
|
| "Paul" wrote:
|
| > Can someone help me with an issue with my XP Pro
installation? I installed XP
| > Pro months ago and it did not recognize most of the programs I had on my
| > system. Like Frontpage, Dreamweaver, AdobePagemaker, CorelDraw etc, etc. So
| > it looked like a crap install. Everything did work fine, little slow but,
| > fine. But now I have the need to use some of the programs and couldn't. I | > went into the system and deleted most of the crap and now I'm getting popups
| > galore. Question(s): When I installed XP Pro should that have deleted
| > everything on the system that it could not use? And, Can
I reinstall XP again
| > but, would it help?
| > Thanks for any help
| > Paul
| >