Brian, Thank you for your response, it is very helpful, I am learning here as I go, I find it very interesting, did go to the links you suggested and they are a help, I now realize that the problem is not with the player but with the script for Internet Explorer thanks to you. It happens when I am utilizing the Radio function of the player and click a link within it, for example when trying to rate a song I get the error msg, it also says that the error is "expected"?? not sure what that means. If the script needs a line added to it maybe you may suggest a where I might go to for short course in doing so. You are right about the restore point I should have thought about that first thing, thanks for the reminder!! Also looked at your site and bookmarked it I am sure it will be a big help in the future. Thanks again for your response and help.
