I have decided to turn of XP's Indexing Service on my HD and when I did that, while it was "applying attributes" to everything on the HD I got Errors for about 10 files. The Error was "Access is denied."

Two examples of two of the errors:

C:\ProgramFiles\CommonFiles\Ado...\ActiveX

C:\WIN...ADOBEUPDATER.EXE-1AB51BCE.pf

I kept hitting Ignore and saved the first few error windows and then finally just hit Ignore All.

Have I broken something?

I also went into Services and Disabled Indexing Services there. Is this OK?

Hi JD,
Your computer may be infected with viruses and malwares,
so try to clean up
by scanning on line for both.
For scan online go here:
<http://www.pandasecurity.com>
<http://www.sophos.com>
<http://www.avast.com>
<http://www.trendmicro.com>
For malwares:
install, then run the updates to get the new definitions and scan for malwares:
http://www.lavasoft.com/products/ad-aware_se_personal.php
<http://www.safer-networking.org> for Spybot S&D BTW, Adobe extension will end with PDF not PF, the spyware would like to trick you and your system.
HTH.
Let us know.

I don't think that is the problem. I scan with Avast, Spybot Search&Destroy, SuperAntiSpyware and I use Spyware Blaster.

The file ADOBEUPDATER.EXE-1AB51BCE.pf is located in C:\Windows\Prefetch and I don't think it's a .pdf file.

JD,
Do you have Adobe and What version is it?.
I said Scan to check if all okay, the name looks fishy to me, scanning doesn't hurt.
If you have Adobe try to uninstall it and try running indexing service and see if you will get the error then install the Adobe.
HTH.
Let us know.

If you look at my reply to Dave B who said when he turned off Indexing Services he got the same errors and did what I did, just Ignore All.

Maybe you missed my point, I'm turning Off Indexing. I was just curious about the error and it appears to be a minor glitch in XP. I took a look at the Properties of the file in question and it is not being Indexed. My job is done. Thanks for trying to help.
