

Re: malicious or not

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.basics/2008-01/msg00211.html>

- From: "Albert Smith" <albert.smith@xxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 7 Jan 2008 23:57:29 +0100
-

Well after an automatic update from f-secure the suspicious item box has mysteriously disappeared and now when I run a scan it does not flag up any suspicious items . Now I am suspicious.

"MAP" <mikepawlak2REM@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:%23UQZNsVUIHA.5132@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Albert Smith wrote:

I have F-secure antivirus software and I recently renewed my subscription and installed the 2008 version. On running a scan it found 1 item under the heading of suspicious Items: Which the 2007 version does not have. According to f secure it is a stealth drive and not malicious software, i.e.not matching any definitions Is there any way to find out what it is? Or what program it is? Or what program is using it?

I recently installed "Kaspersky's" anti-virus on a friends computer updated and scanned their system and what do ya know Kaspersky flagged it's own setup files that where in the recycle bin,point being don't worry too much about these reports.

P.S. their are several running "hidden" programs on your system
<http://www.karenware.com/powertools/ptwinwatch.asp>

--

Mike Pawlak