

Remembering the Old file/folder

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.customize/2005-01/1061.html>

---

From: Hari Prasadh (excel_hari_at_hotmail.com)

Date: 01/24/05

Date: Mon, 24 Jan 2005 12:48:31 +0530

Hi,

Suppose I have 160 or (some similar large number) of files and folders within a folder A.

Suppose am scrolling down the contents of folder A and double-click on a SUB-folder B.

After browsing through contents of B, I press the UP button on the menu bar and rather than folder B being highlighted the view would scroll "up" to the top most file/folder in the folder A.

Basically Im examinng each subfolder within folder A and once examined I will go back to the folder A and select the next sub-folder on the list. Because of the above problem I have to keep scrolling down to folder B and then select the next sub folder.

Does Windows XP have the feature of scroll window view of the folder being the same as the last viewed position. I have SP2.

--

Thanks a lot,
Hari
India