

Re: Embedded Folder Options

---

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.customize/2006-08/msg00302.html>

---

- From: "Wesley Vogel" <123WVogel955@xxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Tue, 8 Aug 2006 15:01:40 -0600
-

It only took a month for you to come up with the right answer.

WTF are you talking about. I had the right answer all the time. You had to ask the question first.

I posted the answer 1 hour and 28 minutes after you posted the question.

--
Hope this helps. Let us know.

Wes
MS-MVP Windows Shell/User

In <news:6184FAD1-14F3-4821-BEA2-EC6A0982BF02@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx>, okmatthew <okmatthew@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> hunted and pecked:

Thank you Wesley. It only took a month for you to come up with the right answer. In the future why don't you just post your answer once and don't bother to track down all my different posts. Once is enough. Now I'll re-edit my signature file.

--
Please Don't find all & say I can't post in many forums. The Advanced Options provides for this! When you do, others won't look at the problem. U & I have better things to do.
Thanks,

Matthew

"Wesley Vogel" wrote:

See one of these.

Search Companion Starts If You Double-Click a Folder or Drive

Re: Embedded Folder Options

<http://windowsxp.mvps.org/searchwindow.htm>

Fixes the problem where Search or Command Prompt opens when double clicking a folder © Doug Knox

http://www.dougknox.com/xp/scripts\_desc/xp\_folder\_open.htm

Search Companion Starts If You Double-Click a Folder

<http://support.microsoft.com/?kbid=321186>

--

Hope this helps. Let us know.

Wes

MS-MVP Windows Shell/User

In

news:C305ED7D-39EB-488D-A8D1-1B224B46C5B6@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx, okmatthew <okmatthew@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> hunted and pecked:

When I left click on a folder I get the 'find' (search) command in that directory. Right click has the normal options with 'search' on the top.

While trying to fix this I went to:

FOLDER OPTIONS, FILE TYPES.

When I look at the list there are 2 different entries for Folder.

When I

edit the file type in the first one titled 'File Folder' it only has 'find' listed the second one titled 'File' has the normal mouse click options, 'open', 'explore', etc...

I cannot edit the 1st or 2nd one nor can I delete them. (Yes I have administrator privileges)

Some where I should be able to edit this list. Does anyone know how, like maybe there is a utility such as msconfig or some other way to edit this list??

Thank you,

--

Please Don't find all & say I can't post in many forums. The Advanced

Options provides for this! When you do, others

won't look at the

problem. U & I have better things to do.

Thanks,

Re: Embedded Folder Options

Matthew

--

Hope this helps. Let us know.

Wes

MS-MVP Windows Shell/User

In

news:E7A7CB9A-B86C-465D-9F85-4AE10398DBFE@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx, okmatthew <okmatthew@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> hunted and
pecked:

When I left click on a folder I get the 'find' (search) command in that directory. Right click has the normal options with 'search' on the top.
While trying to fix this I went to:
FOLDER OPTIONS, FILE TYPES.
When I look at the list there are 2 different entries for Folder.
When I
edit the file type in the first one titled 'File Folder' it only has
'find' listed the second one titled 'File' has the normal mouse
click
options, 'open', 'explore', etc...

I cannot edit the 1st or 2nd one nor can I delete them. (Yes I have administrator privileges)

Some where I should be able to edit this list. Does anyone know how,
like maybe there is a utility such as msconfig or some other way to edit this list??

Thank you,

--

Please Don't find all & say I can't post in many forums. The Advanced
Options provides for this! When you do, others
won't look at the
problem. U & I have better things to do.
Thanks,

Matthew

--

Re: Embedded Folder Options

Hope this helps. Let us know.

Wes
MS-MVP Windows Shell/User

In [When I left click on a folder I get the 'find' \(search\) command in that directory. Right click has the normal options with 'search' on the top.](mailto:news:EC2C2F75-511A-41A9-9422-1528D39E4643@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx, okmatthew <okmatthew@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> hunted and pecked:<div data-bbox=)

While trying to fix this I went to:
FOLDER OPTIONS, FILE TYPES.

When I look at the list there are 2 different entries for Folder. When I edit the file type in the first one titled 'File Folder' it only has 'find' listed the second one titled 'File' has the normal mouse click options, 'open', 'explore', etc...

I cannot edit the 1st or 2nd one nor can I delete them. (Yes I have administrator privileges)

Some where I should be able to edit this list. Does anyone know how, like maybe there is a utility such as msconfig or some other way to edit this list??

Thank you,

--

Please Don't find all & say I can't post in many forums. The Advanced Options provides for this! When you do, others won't look at the problem. U & I have better things to do.

Thanks,

Matthew