

Re: No java?

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2004-03/1783.html>

From: SB (sharoney_at_mindspring.com)

Date: 03/02/04

Date: 2 Mar 2004 12:30:43 -0800

I hope you get some responses here, cause I'm having the same problem . . . It's such a relief to know it's not just me.

Sharon

"Ernie Lane" <elanel@tampabay.rr.com> wrote in message news:<i521c.177139$jH.1579368@twister.tampabay.rr.com>...
> I just went to a local radio station's website to listen to a program being > streamed over the Internet. This was the first time I had done so with a > new Windows XP computer, and I was surprised to be told that I had to > download a Java runtime thing first. I thought Windows XP was pretty > complete.
>
> Anyway, after being taken to a Microsoft site, which linked to Sun's, I > tried to download . . . but only got "Site does not exist" after selecting > the download page. Nothing works, not a link through their help or > anything, and even their contact page gives me the same "Site does not > exist" thing. Does this mean that I am not going to be able to run anything > that requires Java until the Microsoft-Sun thing is over?
>
> Does anyone have the file that installs Java?