possibly spyware? but is strange. long as you are updating your anti virus once a day.and scan your system, cause it sounds like you are a mail server for spam. try spybot safer-networking.org ,update ,scan on easy and remove scum.

>When I connect to the internet my computer sends hundreds of emails. I know this because I start getting back messages right away saying that most of them cannot be delivered. I have run Norton and MacCafey and there software said that I don't have a virus. I even did a manual search for most of the names. Does anyone have any ideas.
