My brother did something to my internet explorer, Now everytime I try to get on the internet, I get an error and it shut's down. I've tried loading a new internet explorer, but it says there is already a newer version on my computer and it won't continue. There is no way to delete windows explorer and I can't find my XP disk to reload the windows components. Am I doomed to go buy a new Windows perating system? If you can help please post a reply or send me an e-mail @ logorus@comcast.net
