

desktop freezes

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2004-06/21062.html>

---

From: Richie (anonymous_at_discussions.microsoft.com)

Date: 06/21/04

Date: Sun, 20 Jun 2004 19:10:23 -0700

Yep, all those pop ups indicate you have been bombarded with spyware, so you'll need to install and scan with the following
Adaware, or spybot, and the CWShredder

Add the Google toolbar to your explorer.

These items will help to rid the intial little bombs, then use them to maintain your system, by the way they are all free.

>-----Original Message-----

>OK... let's see. I have windows xp on a dell computer.
>It started out that my desktop would freeze and become >unresponsive, usually when i would recieve a serious of IE
>pop ups. I could still use the programs that I already >had activated but would be unable to open new ones or close >open programs. I download spyware software but that did >not do the trick. I then proceeded to install windows >updates.... and I then got a blue screen error message
when >I restarted my computer.... which said "W32K.sys" error >message.
>I've run several virus scans "updated" and found >nothing. Any suggestions.... please help!
>
>