

Re: How to set up a Dial-Upconnection to I.S.P. for WLL link at 115 kbps?

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2004-06/23807.html>

From: John A (not_at_available.com)

Date: 06/23/04

Date: Thu, 24 Jun 2004 08:19:01 +1000

Suggest you ask sancharnet. If it is ISDN or PSDN you may need special software and drivers.

John Allen

On Wed, 23 Jun 2004 08:43:35 +0530, "P. Jayant" <pjayant@sancharnet.in> wrote:

>If an I.S.P. is providing a WLL connection at 115 kbps, does one follow the >same procedure as for fixed line connections under XP?
>
>Any checks to be made for the modem which could be internal to the telephone >instrument?
>
>Any specific options to be selected while setting up the Dialup connection?
>
>Are there any Microsoft Knowledge Base articles which advise on how to go >about this?
>
>P. Jayant
>
>