

Re: Where is XP Service Pack 2 for download to single PC users?

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2004-08/26454.html>

From: matt9533 (matt9533_at_bellsouth.net)

Date: 08/22/04

Date: 22 Aug 2004 12:46:24 -0700

AnnonUser <poster@annon.net> wrote in message news:<eqpwWuEiEHA.1392@TK2MSFTNGP11.phx.gbl>...

> Ken wrote:

>

> > *I have Windows XP Professional edition installed as the > > operating system on just one PC (Dell Dimension 8100 – > > 1600 Mhz). WHEN can I expect to be able to download XP > > Service Pack 2? I have set my PC for Automatic Update > > downloads. Is there NO Microsoft site where this is now > > available, since today 22nd of August 2004, it is two > > weeks almost since you released SP2 for general > > distribution? I live in the United Kingdom. My e-mail > > address is: kenkini@hotmail.com
> *Read the posts about SP2 BEFORE you decide to download and install.
> Dell seems to be a particular problem. You could just run a third party > firewall and forget about SP2 until M$ gets it right.

I just spoke with microsoft about the new service pack. Starting on Monday August 25th users os windows xp home edition will have a better chance of ownloading a smaller version of the service pack. 25 million users a day. Starting August 25th windows xp pro users will begin to have a chance at downloading. The beginning of october mosts xp users will be able to download the the pc version for single computers.