

Re: Post Mortem and SP2

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2004-08/31472.html>

From: Pammyam (pam_at_incognito.net)

Date: 08/26/04

Date: Thu, 26 Aug 2004 01:23:38 -0400

I found the instructions for getting rid of the Dr. and followed although it didn't say it applied to XP, but since I found the link at Kelly's Korner, I figured it would be okay.

BTW, the freezes were occurring when I tried to bring up the Task List and when I tried to open XP Help.

"Pammyam" <pam@incognito.net> wrote in message news:Ow3jAoyiEHA.3612@TK2MSFTNGP12.phx.gbl...

>I installed SP2 and my wonderful XP Pro system is now sick. I am getting >freezes right and left.

>

> How do I get rid of Dr. Watson Post Mortem Debugger? It seems to be a > problem. I've turned Error Reporting off since SP2 turned it back on.

>

> Or should I just System Restore and wait until SP2 is better?

>

> I have ZoneAlarm 5.1 and the XP Firewall is off.

> I have EZAntivirus, but not the firewall.

>

> System loads much slower after the several reboots that I've done.

>

> Thanks.

> Pam

>