Yes, it IS possible!!

I am running Windows XP Pro and have recently upgraded from Office XP to Office 2003.

On the Office XP toolbar there used to be a shortcut to screensaver that allowed the password protection to still work. Many discussion groups wrongly state that this shortcut doesn't provide the password protection. I think that this is only the case when the shortcut is to a particular .scr file, rather than the general screensaver function.

MSoft have ditched the toolbar in Office 2003 and I can't find the target of the Office XP toolbar shortcut.

Does anyone know a work around or the original target in Office XP?
