

RE: Unable To BOOT

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2004-11/15189.html>

From: mljk (mljk_at_discussions.microsoft.com)

Date: 11/22/04

Date: Mon, 22 Nov 2004 10:13:04 -0800

Thanks for posting a reply HackerAce.

If I could turn back the time I would have made a backup ☹

I was so careful with XP that I didn't even update to service pack 2.

I did try to do the recovery console, but it is stuck at C:

Just to let you know I did boot with a WINDOWS ME startup disk, entered in dos and did a Scandisk; in doing that it found and I fixed several misreading there.

Of course that did not solve my problem.

Can you please guide me through the steps of Recovery?

Thanks.

"mljk" wrote:

> Basically I get the following error message!

>

> Missing or

> C:\windows.000\system\vm32.vxd

> C:\windows.000\ifshlp.sys

> Wininit.exe missing/unable to load

>

>

> To make it short!..

>

> I have as my operating system! Windows XP Pro upgrade

> (From full version of WINDOWS ME) FAT32.

>

>

> I was recording a live vocal in Samplitude, when the Monitor Screen went

> BLACK, I heard the music in the background, but could not see the picture, so

> I pulled the plug and tried to restart it.

microsoft.public.windowsxp.general: RE: Unable To BOOT

- >
- > The video was breaking up when I went into the bios to see if everything was
- > normal there, and they were.
- >
- > However I canâ€™t get to operating system.
- >
- > Hitting F8 gets me to the option to boot in Safe Mode, however after
- > selecting Safe Mode the next screen gives me the ERRORS above, and I canâ€™t
- > get past it.
- >
- >
- > I do music only on that computer, I donâ€™t have and MODEM/NIC installed.
- > All my software is legally bought.
- >
- >
- > Can someone, can anyone please help me and my situation?
- >
- >
- > Thank you very much.
- > Marcus Kemp
- >