

Re: Task Scheduler

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2004-12/10158.html>

From: Willy (justask_at_hotmail.com)

Date: 12/15/04

Date: Tue, 14 Dec 2004 21:00:46 -0500

Torgeir,

I followed your instructions. Seemed all work as designed but here is a few glitches I ran into that may be my fault or way XP is designed to work:

- After making changes you provided, I restarted,
- XP opened and gave me a logon screen to enter password for Administrator,
- I'm only user and if I go to User Accounts it only shows me, Bill|Computer Administrator|Password Protected| and a Guest|Guest account is off,
- So I entered a password I thought I'd had set for Administrator and XP opened but it went through setting up everything, Office 2003 Settings, etc. and Desktop looked nothing like the Desktop under User Name Bill,
- I restarted and this time when it pop up a logon window, I changed User Name to Bill & used password I'd set for it. XP then opened with Desktop I've always had.

In conclusion, I want all to look the same for Bill & Administrator. Is this possible?

--

Thanks....Bill

Please reply to the Newsgroup ONLY