

RE: Problem After Format

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2004-12/16981.html>

From: Xx Ice xX (XxlceX_at_discussions.microsoft.com)

Date: 12/26/04

Date: Sun, 26 Dec 2004 04:07:01 -0800

Ill try that thanks. Any suggestions about the cd not reading in the driver?
Thanks

"Andrew E." wrote:

> Youll need to install SP1 for xp first,that updates the usb drivers,then in > device mgr.,locate the usb controller,R.click,select,update drivers.
>
> "Xx Ice xX" wrote:
>
>> Hey everyone. My computer was running like a dog so i eventually decided to >> format. I tried booting from the xp disk and it wudnt work and everything and >> i tried all the other stuff then finally took it out and there was a huge >> crack right through the cd. Luckily i had another xp disk there from my old >> computer but the format didnt go well. My first problem was installing the >> sound card the drive just wouldnt read the disc. Again luckily i had my old >> computers sound card driver lol and i used that but i duno wat thats done. Is >> it the disk or the drive do u think? it can semi read it but sorta freezes.
>> My next problem is that in the device manager list i have a: Universal Serial >> Bus (USB) Controller which does not have drivers installed for it, and is >> under the other devices section with a question mark beside it. Ive never >> seen this after a format so i dno wat th heck it is. I have a 2 usb ports on >> th front of my comp im guessing its that but i dont have any cd or anything >> that will install this. Anyhelp on this would be much appreciated
>> Thanks
>> Ice