

microsoft.public.windowsxp.general: Re: Reset "Do not show this warning again" check box?

Re: Reset "Do not show this warning again" check box?

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2004-12/1879.html>

---

From: OShah (nospam_at_aol.com)

Date: 12/02/04

Date: Thu, 02 Dec 2004 15:32:32 -0800

"=?Utf-8?B?b3BlcmFmbHV0ZQ==?" <operaflute@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in news:6C5C960C-62AF-400C-B423-4BC4BF222E88@microsoft.com:

- > If I've checked the box "do not show this warning again" is there a way
- > I can reset it so that it DOES show the warning again? Specifically,
- > this is a warning about resetting my resolution to a non-optimal
- > setting. Thanks
- >

Unfortunately, this type of question has different answers dependent on which dialog box had the "do not show again" checkbox.

In your case, I'll assume this is the dialog box you get after you've dragged the slider in Desktop Properties -> Settings -> Screen resolution. You can get back the dialog box by pressing Advanced. Under Compatibility, make sure the option "Ask me before applying the new settings" is selected.

This should give you back the dialog (I hope that's the right one).

If it's the wrong dialog, sorry for wasting your time.

--

-----
oshah

Control Panel -> System -> Advanced -> Error Reporting -> Choose Programs

-> Do not report errors for these programs:

Acrobat.exe

waol.exe
-----