

Re: quick launch

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2005-01/16314.html>

---

From: Detlev Dreyer (detdreyer_at_flashmail.com)

Date: 01/20/05

Date: Thu, 20 Jan 2005 19:30:46 GMT

"Joe" <junk@junk.com> wrote:

> Hopefully I'm not too late to ask this, I assume there is a reason you > made the comment about Symantec, can you tell me what it is?

Sorry for the late response. I keep all messages for a couple of days only on my local newsserver and therefore, I couldn't track this thread anymore. Thanks to Lady Kelly (hugs & kisses because giving me a buzz by email) I'm aware of your follow-up now.

The registry tweak that I was posting is the remedy for your problem, usually. Recently however, it failed a couple of times in local news-groups and that's my standard question if a standard advice fails: Is there any Norton/Symantec software installed?

Yes, this stuff was installed in all cases when this tweak failed. Over the years, I got tired of the following deja-vue discussions after posting to uninstall this crap. Therefore, I just mention that an advice might not work if there are any Symantec products installed. It's up to the user to decide how to proceed in this case and I do not have to explain a thousand times that Symantec software is simply not Windows compatible and BTW never was.

--
d-d