

microsoft.public.windowsxp.general: Re: Entering a domain name in a scheduled task

Re: Entering a domain name in a scheduled task

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2005-03/0514.html>

From: Randy Harris (randy_at_nospam.com)

Date: 02/28/05

Date: Mon, 28 Feb 2005 08:02:18 -0500

"Ken W" <KenW@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message news:33CDF92D-44DC-4E24-A863-80CADEF1E7E3@microsoft.com...
> Since I joined a domain I'm not able to get a scheduled task to run. When > I'm prompted for my userid and password, what is the correct syntax? Is it > domain/name, where the domain is limited to 15 characters. I've tried to > every permutation I can think of but I haven't had any luck. If there is a > settings that doesn't require a password, that would be okay to.

It's "domain\username"