All of a sudden both My Compute and My Network Places can only be viewed with the usual five choices for any folder—details, list, icons, tiles and thumbnails. Where is that nice default view that came with Windows, where the items are all grouped by section together—all the hard drives, all the other disks, all the printers, etc? I have taken it so much for granted that I can't even describe it properly! I hope someone knows what I mean because I'd like to get it back.

Thank you for your help,
