

External modem

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2005-05/msg16219.html>

- From: wobble <wobble@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sat, 28 May 2005 18:31:04 -0700
-

I have an external ISDN Modem at home and when away from home I use the internal modem in my laptop.
I have set up as I did with 98 so that I have 2 different logons available.
When I boot my laptop away from home it changes the ISDN logon to use the internal modem...probably because it can't find the ISDN modem...so when I get back home I have to reinstall the ISDN modem.
Is there a way of locking the ISDN logon so that it keeps the ISDN modem instead of being modified by XP?

.

- Follow-Ups:
 - ◆ Re: External modem
 - ◇ From: Malke
- Prev by Date: Re: HELP! i can't Install SP2!!
- Next by Date: Re: need more than a system restore
- Previous by thread: Re: sp2 to sp1
- Next by thread: Re: External modem
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread