

Re: Invalid MS-DOS funtion

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2005-06/msg00563.html>

- From: "Daz" <daz@xxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 1 Jun 2005 17:00:53 +0100
-

I believe that the update file is also called XPSP2.exe. My cd is a copy of an original XP SP2 update disc.

I have only been using Windows Explorer not Command Prompt. Would this be a better option?

Yes I can copy all of the other files from the cd OK. I have copied successfully from the cd to HDD on another pc.

"GTS" <x> wrote in message news:uCCeFEsZFHA.3808@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

> The normal name of the SP2 installation is WindowsXP-KB835935-SP2-ENU.exe

> Where did the CD file come from?

> How are you doing the copy? Windows explorer? Command prompt?

> Can you copy other files from CD's or do you always get this error?

> --

>

> "Daz" <daz@xxxxxxx> wrote in message

> news:uVLjf7rZFHA.3488@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

>> When trying to copy the file XPSP2.exe (the Win XP Service Pack 2 update >> file) from a CD-ROM to the HDD I get the above error message and the file >> won't copy.

>>

>> Can anyone help me?

>>

>

>

.

• Follow-Ups:

◆ Re: Invalid MS-DOS funtion

◇ From: GTS

• References:

◆ Invalid MS-DOS funtion

◇ From: Daz

Re: Invalid MS-DOS funtion

◆ Re: Invalid MS-DOS funtion

◇ From: GTS

- Prev by Date: Re: Simple way to explain hard disk issue
- Next by Date: Re: Mouse orientation
- Previous by thread: Re: Invalid MS-DOS funtion
- Next by thread: Re: Invalid MS-DOS funtion
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread