

Re: Any issues with this month's patches?

Re: Any issues with this month's patches?

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2005-08/msg06360.html>

- From: Don Taylor <dont@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 10 Aug 2005 20:01:33 -0500
-

"=?Utf-8?B?VGhllIEZydXN0cmF0ZWQgTW9uaw==?="

<TheFrustratedMonk@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> writes:

>I installed this month's patches on my desktop running XP Pro SP2. Upon >reboot after installing the patches my desktop goes into a perpetual reboot.
>I get this even with all of the Safe Mode settings. I get the XP splash >screen and then it shows the color of my desktop and reboots.

>On my laptop, XP Pro SP2, I installed the patches and saw the same issue.
>Fortunately it booted into safe mode and I was able to do a restore.

>Anyone else seen this? These are company machines with legit licenses.

Last night the ITsafe team,

ITsafe Team

Making IT safe for You

<http://www.itsafe.gov.uk>

The UK Alerting and Advisory Service for Information and Communications Technologies (ICT) Security

sending out warnings about security threats to Microsoft Windows installations, told of three critical updates to Windows.

A few hours later they reversed their advice with:

ITsafe Bulletin 2005/013A – UPDATE Number 1

What is it?

=====

Bulletin 2005-BUL-013 was issued on Tuesday 9th August, and related to Microsoft Security Bulletin MS05-038 – a problem with "Microsoft Internet Explorer" browser. Since then Microsoft have reported there have been problems experienced with downloading the updates, and that they have been temporarily removed. In addition, our UNIRAS partners report that attempts are being made to use the problem fixed by this vulnerability to attack computers.

What do I do?

Re: Any issues with this month's patches?

Re: Any issues with this month's patches?

=====

Hold off updating your copy of Internet Explorer until the revised download becomes available from Microsoft. ITsafe will issue an update when this is available, and Microsoft's various automated update services if enabled on your computer will detect the new update once re-released.

.

- References:

- ◆ Any issues with this month's patches?

- ◆ From: The Frustrated Monk

- Prev by Date: Re: XP safe mode problems
- Next by Date: Re: Windows XP Home Edition – No User Icons in Windows XP Login window
- Previous by thread: user profile problems logging in and out
- Next by thread: Re: Any issues with this month's patches?
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread