

Re: Demand That 'Microsoft Sell No Code Before Its Time'

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2005-08/msg06832.html>

- From: "Jupiter Jones [MVP]" <jones_jupiter@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 11 Aug 2005 13:09:33 -0600
-

Good for you.

Facts are against so you need to insult to prove your point.

Do you also advocate the same standards for all operating systems?
If you would read the article for the first time you referenced, you might see the problem.

But since you are unwilling or possibly unable, here is an excerpt:
"The Committee to Fight Microsoft ("CTFM"), the first civil rights and consumer action organization in cyberspace, will hold a San Francisco news conference Tuesday, August 9th to announce that it has begun a campaign to block Microsoft Corporation from releasing Windows Vista to the general public unless and until Microsoft offers a general and unconditional warranty to purchasers that the program does not include "bad code.""

You should read the posts.

The major problem is with "unconditional warranty" & "program does not include "bad code.""

Do you know what an "unconditional warranty" is?

When have you provided such a warranty?

What software of any kind can provide such a warranty.

The posters are not so much defending Microsoft as they are pointing out the stupidity of the article you seem to support.

Stick to what is relevant if you have the ability.

Your need to insult displays your own incompetence.

—

Jupiter Jones [MVP]

<http://www3.telus.net/dandemar>

<http://www.dts-l.org>

"NoStop" <nostop@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message

news: mEKe.188213\$%K2.80713@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx

> On Thursday 11 August 2005 12:42 am, NoNoBadDog! had this to say in > microsoft.public.windowsxp.general:

Re: Demand That 'Microsoft Sell No Code Before Its Time'

>
>>
>> "NoStop" <nostop@xxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
>> news:UKAKe.184953\$%K2.117647@xxxxxxxxxxxx
>>> Read article here ...
>>>
>>> <http://www.eetimes.com/showPressRelease.jhtml?articleID=X353718>
>>>
>>>
>>> --
>>> Have you been MicroShafted today?
>>> To mess up a Linux box, you need to work at it.
>>> To mess up a Windows box, you need to work on it.
>>
>> Sorry to see your stupid, lame excuse for wasting oxygen back on the >> newsgroups.
>>
>> For the uninitiated, NoStop couldn't find his own a with both hands and >> a >> map. He has never once given a correct piece of advice, and seems to >> think he knows everything.
>>
>> Bobby
>
> Nice to see all the Wintards jump to the defence of MickeyMouse. Only a > Wintard would be content to pay big money for an "o/s" as full of holes > and > bugs as XP has been and then shoot at the messenger because they're too > stupid to shoot at the message.
>
> Agreed, that a lot of software contains bugs. But those are usually fixed > in > a swift fashion or else the software ceases to be used. Wintards on the > other hand appear to be stupid enough to keep giving Gate$ a chance to fix > a lame product with patch after patch after patch as they continue to > struggle to keep their computers working. What are we up to? SP #2 (each > patch containing dozens of bug fixes) and still more fixes coming down the > pipe. This is almost 5 years after this toy operating system was initially > released! Consumers deserve better and that is all the article is > advocating.
>
> No need to be such apologists you guys. Anyone with any brains can see > you're just sheeple and part of the MickeyMouse Fan Club. When the next > poor souls come here and post the silly problems they're having, just tell > them it's what's expected when one runs Windoze. Live with it! A fix will > come ... eventually (more likely when you cough up more money for the next > version, so you can start the whole game again). You'll be laughing > stocks,
> as you so rightfully deserve within the computing community – as your > buddy
> Billy laughs all the way to the bank.

Re: Demand That 'Microsoft Sell No Code Before Its Time'

- >
- > It's people like you, that bow to Redmond, that helps keep this silliness
- > afloat. Fortunately, many thousands are finally waking up, have smelled
- > the
- > coffee, and have given up on MickeyMouse. The MickeyMouse Fan Club is
- > losing its members and eventually only you fundamentalists will be left
- > reading your KB articles wondering why your computers are always crapping
- > out on you even after you've patched it for the umpteenth time. You all
- > need to be thanking your lucky stars that other developers (outside of M$)
- > keep your computers running at all. If it wasn't for anti-virus,
- > anti-trojan, anti-spyware programs, your lame O/S would bite the dust in
- > the first 5 minutes of a Net connection. I think it's time YOU stopped
- > apologizing for this. Grow some balls fellas.
- >
- >
- > --
- > Have you been MicroShafted today?
- > To mess up a Linux box, you need to work at it.
- > To mess up a Windows box, you need to work on it.

• Follow-Ups:

- ◆ Re: Demand That 'Microsoft Sell No Code Before Its Time'
◇ From: ~ FreeSpirit ~

• References:

- ◆ Demand That 'Microsoft Sell No Code Before Its Time'
◇ From: NoStop
- ◆ Re: Demand That 'Microsoft Sell No Code Before Its Time'
◇ From: NoNoBadDog!
- ◆ Re: Demand That 'Microsoft Sell No Code Before Its Time'
◇ From: NoStop

- Prev by Date: Re: Why does Windows Update lie?
- Next by Date: Re: Windows XP and infection rate
- Previous by thread: Re: Demand That 'Microsoft Sell No Code Before Its Time'
- Next by thread: Re: Demand That 'Microsoft Sell No Code Before Its Time'
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread