I don't know what's going on, but audio files and feeds keep crashing my programs in Windows. Is there a way for me to investigate what's going on or missing? Or even more simply, is there a place for me to get everything that Windows should need to play files properly?

I have experienced this with media player, realplayer, internet audio streams which I've wanted to hear. I am beyond thinking it's any one program at this point.
